Major General Arthur G. Trudeau
Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2
Department of the Army
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear General Trudeau:

In your letter of 24 December 1953 you suggested that problems relating to clandestine intelligence required a clarification of NSCID #5 rather than an "Agreed Activities" paper.

NSCID #5 is a fundamental statement of policy. Prior to its issuance the underlying philosophies and problems were debated at length at all levels in the interested offices of the Executive Branch of the Government and by appropriate congressional groups. Each formal study of the problem of clandestine intelligence operations, after debate of the various views presented, came without exception to an acceptance of the principles reflected in NSCID #5.

A revision was issued on 28 August 1951 to meet new conditions arising from the Korean War and the establishment of NATO, but the paper as revised is still a statement of basic responsibilities rather than an attempt to spell out the conditions that will govern all conceivable relationships and circumstances. There is, however, ample flexibility in the concept stated in NSCID #5 to meet all such circumstances, and changing needs can best be met by corollary agreements, based on NSCID #5, which can be readily achieved without calling into play the full machinery of the National Security Council, which inevitably would require a rather prolonged procedure.

Therefore, rather than seek a change in NSCID #5, I would prefer to pursue the problem of a coordinated program on the basis of the "Agreed Activities" paper which representatives of the Armed Services prepared in collaboration with representatives of this Agency, in June of ~~last~~ year. We are now awaiting with interest the return of this draft agreement which I understand the JIC ad hoc committee dealing with this problem planned to rework on the basis of comments from commanders in the field.

I would therefore urge that you use your influence to bring about early resumption of negotiation leading to a final "Agreed Activities" paper.

Sincerely,

Maj. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau
Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2
Department of the Army

Dear General Trudeau:

Thank you for your letter of 24 December. In response I should like to make the following comments.

I do not believe that a second revision of NSCID No. 5 is necessary in order to achieve a coordinated program in terms of which the Army may more effectively contribute in the clandestine collection field. As you doubtless know, NSCID No. 5 was revised on 28 August 1951 in order to provide for changing world conditions arising from the Korean war and the establishment of NATO. It is my view that an effective coordinated program can be worked out within the framework of the existing directive.

Rather than seek a change in NSCID No. 5, I would prefer to pursue the problem of a coordinated program on the basis of the "Agreed Activities" paper which representatives of the Armed Services in collaboration with representatives of this Agency prepared in June of this year. We are now awaiting with interest the return of this draft agreement which I understand the JIC ad hoc committee dealing with this problem planned to rework on the basis of comments from commanders in the field.

I would therefore urge that you use your influence to bring about early resumption of negotiations leading to a final Agreed Activities paper.

Sincerely yours,
